Making Scents of Wine

Wednesday, July 8, 2009, 7-9pm
Black Bull Family and Golf Community

Join Sommelier John McCune for an enjoyable prelude event to this year's Wine Classic. John's attitude about wine is to remove the intimidation factor and approach wine at a more common and pleasurable level. And what better venue for this exciting new wine event than Bozeman's hottest new golf community, Black Bull.

As your host, John will guide you as you engage all of your senses and learn to identify classic grape varieties from some of the world's great wine regions. Four hand-chosen wines by Montana Spirits and Wine and three aromas will be located at each station. After you smell and taste the wine, you will compare the senses to the three respective aromas. Referencing a provided aroma list, you will guess which are present in the wine. Then use all the clues you've gathered to make an educated guess of the wine variety that you are drinking with the help of a descriptive list.

Of course we'll up the ante with a little competition! The first person to get all four wine varieties and all 12 aromas correct will win a prize.
