♥ Power of Choice Retreat by Leadership Outfitters ♥

Are you leading your life, or is it leading you?

Would it make a difference to you, your company, team, or family if you could cope better with uncertainty? Achieve results without alienating people? Make better decisions? Leadership Outfitter's believes that strong and influential leadership comes from self-awareness and self management, not from a check list of what to do or who to be. It's about knowing both where you excel as well as what habits you have that hinder the results you want to achieve. In this 4 ½-day leadership retreat, two miles outside of Bozeman at their Fort Ellis Ranch, let well-known executive coaches Ris Higgins and Joe Esparza lead the way. During the Power of Choice, they utilize not only group learning sessions, but also equine facilitated learning.

Why horses? They are consummate facilitators in the work of human development, acting as 1,000-pound biofeedback agents offering constant and instant feedback. For those of you profoundly curious and committed to professional growth, this retreat will take you beyond where you've been before. Horse experience not required.

Your retreat, June 13–17 or August 15–19, 2010 includes lunches, all learning materials, horses and equipment, and most importantly, three one-hour, one-on-one coaching sessions after graduating from the retreat. "After five months I can now say with assurance your program worked for me. It gave new tools to use in leading people to accomplish great things. If "big energy" will work with horses, it will work with people and I prove it every day."—Senior Vice President

Donated by Ris Higgins and Joe Esparza of Leadership Outfitters / Value: $3,500
