

Dinosaur Basics:

Additional resources for parents, educators, and students

1. National Geographic Kids - Dinosaurs and Prehistoric: this colorful website lets students delve further into the types of dinosaurs and their behaviors! The website includes imagery, quizzes, and games.
  - a. <http://kids.nationalgeographic.com/animals/hubs/dinosaurs-and-prehistoric/>
2. Brian Switek, "Non-Avian Dinosaur Eats Avian Dinosaur," Smithsonian, 2011.
  - a. <http://www.smithsonianmag.com/science-nature/non-avian-dinosaur-eats-avian-dinosaur-568276/>
3. MOR's Paleohistology lab website: provides an inside view into the research being conducted by MOR's Paleontology program, and includes extensive information and videos about current projects.
  - a. <http://www.morhistologylab.org/>
4. Discovery Kids: Dinosaurs: contains games, quizzes, extension activities, and other ways for students to interact with information about dinosaurs
  - a. <http://discoverykids.com/category/dinosaurs/>
5. American Museum of Natural History: Dinosaurs: comprehensive information and interactives for kids and adults for every dinosaur topic
  - a. <http://www.amnh.org/dinosaurs/>
6. The Field Museum: Dinosaurs: presents recent and regularly updated information and research about dinosaurs
  - a. <https://www.fieldmuseum.org/topic/dinosaurs>
7. Jack Horner's Paleohistology and Molecular Publications: this resource is excellent for educators seeking in-depth information about dinosaurs and paleontology
  - a. <http://www.morhistologylab.org/jr-horner.html>